

|                    |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
|--------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| PRODUCT            | BRADERM KERATO FORTE                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| PRIMARY PACKAGING  | AIRLESS 100 ml                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| CATEGORY           | COSMETIC                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| ACTIVE INGREDIENTS | UREA 42%It has a remarkable keratolytic, softening power, resulting in the thinning of the stratum corneum. MANDELIC ACID 5%Keratolytic action. It differs from other AHAs in its molecular size which is considerably larger. This feature allows it to perform effectively keratolytic action without being irritating to the skin. LACTIC ACID 6%Exfoliating and keratolytic action. THUJA 0,20%Antiviral action. HYALURONIC ACID 0,10% MARINE COLLAGEN 0,10% BISABOLOL 0,20% PANTHENOL 0,50% |
| INDICATIONS        | HYPERKERATOSISCALLOSITY (PILAR KERATOSIS)ITTHYOSIS (RAW ITTHYOSIS, X-LINKED ITTHYOSIS)PSORIASIS (VOLGAR PSORIASIS, GUTTATE PSORIASIS, ETC)WARTS PALM FOOTBEDSFLAT FACE WARTS                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |